GRIPPED BY UNDERTOW*Shell Hunters Have a Narrow Escape.*TOSSED BY THE
HUNGRY WAVES*Young Men Sadly Scarred and Bruised While Battling for Their Lives.

The memory of Ulbrecht, who met with a tragic end while shell-hunting amid the rocks beyond Diamond Head, does not seem to have acted as a deterrent to foolhardy curio hunters.

The currents along the shores of this Island where the reef comes close to the shore line are treacherous and strong, and shell-seeking is best practiced away from their vicinity.

Yesterday afternoon Manuel Pacheco, bookbinder of the Robert Grieve Company, started out with four companions, J. Caceres, Ernest Pacheco, A. Crawford and A. Hubeck, three men and two lads, on a fishing and shell-hunting expedition.

Three eels, six mullet and one large crab satisfied their piscatorial proclivities and the search for shells commenced.

By this time the party was within about two miles of Koko Head, not far from the place where the unfortunate Ulbrecht met his death. Pacheco sighted a rare shell clinging to the side of a partially submerged rock, and was trying for the prize, when a heavy sea broke with tremendous force over the venturesome man, carrying him several feet from the shore.

The following day brought him back on its crest, dashing him against the rocks, the undertow dragging him out to sea once more.

For two or three minutes his terror-stricken companions waited for his reappearance, while it looked as if a repetition of the Ulbrecht tragedy was about to occur.

Presently the head of Manuel appeared amid the foam of an incoming wave. Joseph Caceres sprang into the water and reaching his friend, struck out for the shore, only, as it seemed, to give the sea another victim.

Fighting for dear life, however, as they were thrown against the rocks the two managed to cling to a projection, and, despite the pull of the back current and the keen edge of the coral reef, they clung to, held on desperately until assisted by their companions, they scrambled between waves to the beach.

Both were badly cut and bruised, Pacheco being the more severely hurt. A Japanese fisherman's house being close at hand, the party helped the rescued couple inside, where the wounds were dressed as well as unskilled hands could do it. The hospitable little brown man brought out some rice and tea, after partaking of which Pacheco recovered sufficiently to get home with assistance.

Too much risk generally is run even when bathing and canoeing at the regular beaches. The surf of late has been dangerously high; the undertow at the beach on Saturday afternoon was strong enough to carry a sturdy man off his feet, and give a practiced swimmer no little trouble to fight his way back to shore.

During these short periods of high surfs, revelled in by the young men of the community as "splendid fun," the excitement of surfing on a high comb causes them to overlook the risk. Women and children are safer on the beach at these times. Several canoe parties have been upset of late, and while no actual casualties have occurred, one person, an expert swimmer, was taken with cramps on Saturday, after an upset, and, with the others in the party, experienced difficulty in reaching the shore. Many narrow escapes while canoeing have occurred lately.

EAGLES SEEN
AT WAIKIKI*The Local Aerie Fraternizes
by the Sad Sea Waves.

The Eagles flocked to Long Branch, Waikiki, yesterday, the occasion being the giving of a luau in honor of John F. Cheatham, of San Francisco, organizer of the local lodge.

About 140 Eagles were present, and the festivities continued at high pressure from 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when pinions were spread and a start made for the eyrie.

Among those who soared and ate and ate and soared, were:

The Story of Lace Curtains!One Night in Paris.

A Petite Chanteuse arrived home tired and fagged after her evening's performance. Immediately on entering her elaborate apartments she proceeded to hastily disrobe. In a mood of abandon and nonchalance she threw her Embroidered Lace Petticoat carelessly from her, and it caught upon the curtain pole of a window. There it hung until morning and when the Petite one awoke she was struck by the beautiful effect produced by the sun's rays peeping through the embroidery and open work of the petticoat.

Her upholsterer was summoned and commissioned to design curtains after the term of the undergarment.

The Idea was a Novel and Spread the World Over. And That's How Lace Curtains Originated.

One Day in New York.

We stumbled across some American-made Nottingham and Arabian Curtains that for artistic conceptions and beauty of designs surpassed anything of the kind we had ever seen. We couldn't believe at first that they had been made in America. Neither, perhaps, could you believe it. But we bought those curtains and you are invited to come into our store this week and examine them.

We call your especial attention to the Vestibule Panel Curtains. They are different from anything ever shown here; not only different in design, but different in prices. Ask to be shown a few of these items.

Rich Arabian Bed Sets

Exquisitely lovely designs; color ecru; sizes, spreads 12x4, shams 4x4; price, per set, $25.

Dentelle and Nottingham Bed Sets

Wonderfully clever products of American mills. Entirely novel patterns. Generously made and moderately priced; $1.75, $2.50 and $5 per set.

Ecru Arabian Curtains

Adequate description of which would be wholly impossible. They must be seen. Suffice it to say that they are copied from hand-wrought originals, which cost $200 a pair. These are $9.50, $10, $11 and $15.

Nottingham Curtains

That you can't help but believe came from Nottingham (though they didn't), $2, $3, $4 and $5 a pair.

ARABIAN VESTIBULE and PANEL CURTAINS.

In order to introduce these American-made Curtains to American Buyers, we have taken these two numbers and marked them down to actual cost as leaders. This is a genuine bargain opportunity, and one which will last this week of our introductory sale of curtains only. The Vestibule Curtains will be $4.50 a pair. The Panel Curtains will be $1 each.

Whitney & Marsh, Ltd.MILLSTONE
FOR CHINA

Lamsdorff to instruct the Russia Ambassador to that effect, especially since Russia had from the start followed the policy of rendering a diplomatic settlement in Peking as difficult as possible, and of doing everything to stiffen the backbone of China against the allies, particularly in the matter of the withdrawal of the troops from the province of Chihli.

The National Zeitung takes the view of the German Foreign Office.

The Freisinnige Zeitung expresses a hope that at least a portion of the German troops may now be withdrawn from China, adding that otherwise Germany will be completely isolated there. It says the Chinese forts could have been destroyed without waiting for China's consent.

SATISFIES THE GERMANS.

BERLIN, April 9.—Russia's declaration, renouncing a separate agreement with China, gives great satisfaction in Berlin official circles, since it removes all separate negotiations from having further influence on the diplomatic situation at Peking, and the general negotiations can now proceed unhindered. It is said in official circles that it was to be expected that Russia would not withdraw from Manchuria, and now any power proposing a withdrawal must be prepared to attempt to oust her by force.

The controversy between Russia and Japan on the subject of Korea has been conducted with the greatest caution on both sides, showing an earnest wish to avoid a conflict. The Berlin diplomats do not expect a conflict.

The Lokal Anzeiger publishes the following from its Peking correspondent: "M. Mergeling, secretary of the Berlin Legation, has been arrested by German soldiers, who were guarding the Hattmen gate, but it was his own fault, as he refused to obey instructions."

JAPAN SATISFIED.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Japanese Minister, Mr. Takahira, today received official advice from the Foreign Office at Tokio, entirely dispelling the alarming reports as to a Russo-Japanese rupture, and showing that the Japanese government accepted the latest declaration of Russia on Manchuria with the same sense of satisfaction that it has been received with in the United States. Mr. Takahira called at the State Department and informed Secretary Hay of the gratifying turn of affairs.

The position of Japan, as now defined in the highest official quarters, is practically the same as that of the United States. A copy of the recent Russian communication was delivered to Japan at the same time it was given to this government. Although the texts differ slightly, they are alike in all material points. The Japanese government now makes known that it accepts this declaration as made in good faith, and, like the United States, it is quite satisfied to leave the Manchurian question in its present status. The assurances given by Russia are of such a character that the Japanese authorities look forward to a course of action which will remove the perplexity and dangers in which the issue has been involved thus far.

As the other powers have already indicated their acceptance of the Russian declaration, the course of Japan removes the last possibility of division and appears to restore the harmonious concert which has thus far obtained in dealing with China.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10, 3 p. m.

—The Russian press is abandoning that reserve with which it first discussed the government's declaration on the subject of Manchuria. It now declares that the joy with which the British press greeted China's refusal to sign the Manchurian treaty has merely postponed the signing of a new understanding with China, since the convention would be advantageous to the latter. One paper says:

"Our London friends overlooked the fact that in dissuading the signing of the agreement they did not hasten the evacuation of Manchuria, but strengthened Russia's position."
